

Find what you want in WorldCat

Know the news, not just the headlines

There's no denying that newspapers and Web-based news sites are great sources for up-to-the-minute coverage. But where do you go for in-depth coverage of a subject? From multiple angles? Your library and WorldCat, of course.

Search any subject. Find books, Web sites and more. Chances are you'll see quite a bit of information. Locate recent materials and older materials that provide a historical perspective on a topic.

Know the news, not just the headlines

Ever found yourself wanting to understand the larger issues that frame today's news? Why are Middle East peace talks important to the U.S.? How does the FDA determine safety ratings for medicines? Who does scientific research on global warming? At [INSERT LIBRARY NAME], we ask the same questions—and can help you find multiple angles on today's top news stories.

How? Through WorldCat. When you use WorldCat.org online or in the library, you can see instantly what materials we have here in [INSERT TOWN/COMMUNITY NAME], and what's available through interlibrary loan.

The library can help you find in-depth news articles, history books, maps, video documentaries, government reports, newspapers, almanacs and so much more—from countries around the world. Get the independent, unbiased perspective on the current events and hot topics that shape our world. Right here at your neighborhood library--online or in person.

Find it in here in this library or around the world, through WorldCat.
