Uniformity vs. Uniqueness

- The sameness of e-resources
- New aggregations and mass digitization
- Response:
  - Adding value
  - Local unique
  - Global unique
- Digital archival collections: special challenges
- Missed opportunities
- In the flesh: what is the value of the real?
- Funding issues
- Management issues for the new collections

The uniformity of e-resources

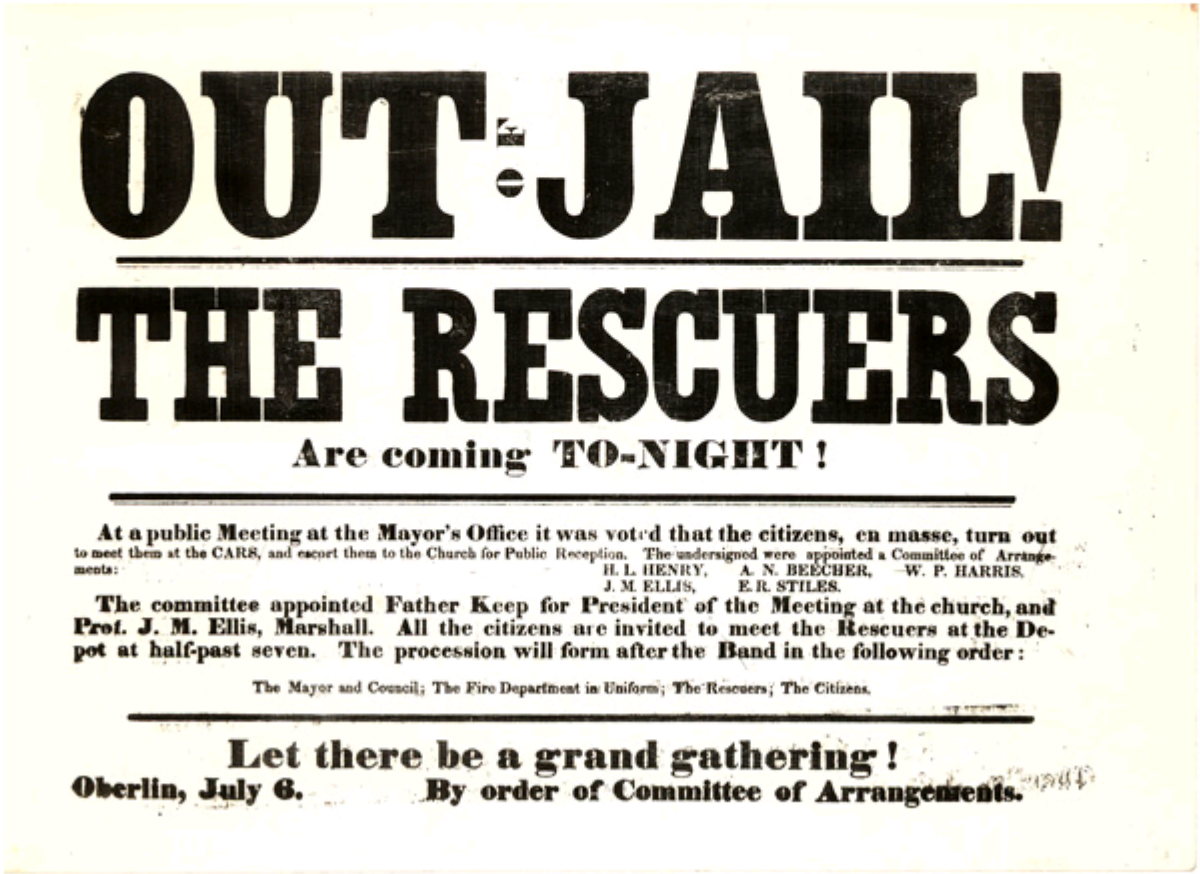
BROADSIDE CALLING A MASS MEETING TO CELEBRATE THE RELEASE OF THE RESCUERS



OUT JAIL!

THE RESCUERS

Are coming TO-NIGHT!

At a public Meeting at the Mayor's Office it was voted that the citizens, en masse, turn out to meet them at the CARS, and escort them to the Church for Public Reception. The undersigned were appointed a Committee of Arrangements:

H. L. HENRY, A. N. BEECHER, W. P. HARRIS,
J. M. ELLIS, E. R. STILES.

The committee appointed Father Keep for President of the Meeting at the church, and Prof. J. M. Ellis, Marshall. All the citizens are invited to meet the Rescuers at the Depot at half-past seven. The procession will form after the Band in the following order:

The Mayor and Council; The Fire Department in Uniform; The Rescuers; The Citizens.

Let there be a grand gathering!

Oberlin, July 6. By order of Committee of Arrangements.

This site provides access to over 80 early manuscripts now in institutions associated wi Oxford. Please read the information about using this website.

Between 1995 and 2000 the Early Manuscripts Imaging Project created high resolutio manuscripts which were selected as major treasures from their respective libraries, to c availability for originals which may otherwise be too fragile for handling.

In 2001 interim responsibility was taken up by the Libraries Automation Service's R&I undertaken a complete redesign of the site to improve the service. The site is now in th Digital Library, to whom enquiries should be addressed.

Please note: We are aware that a number of manuscripts are incomplete. Unfortunate some images only came to light after the project had completed (during the redesign of currently in the process of identifying the resources needed to complete the scanning of The incomplete manuscripts are still accessible from this site, on the principle that a nea manuscript is better than none at all.

We realise that this situation can be frustrating but currently have no further information make the missing images available.

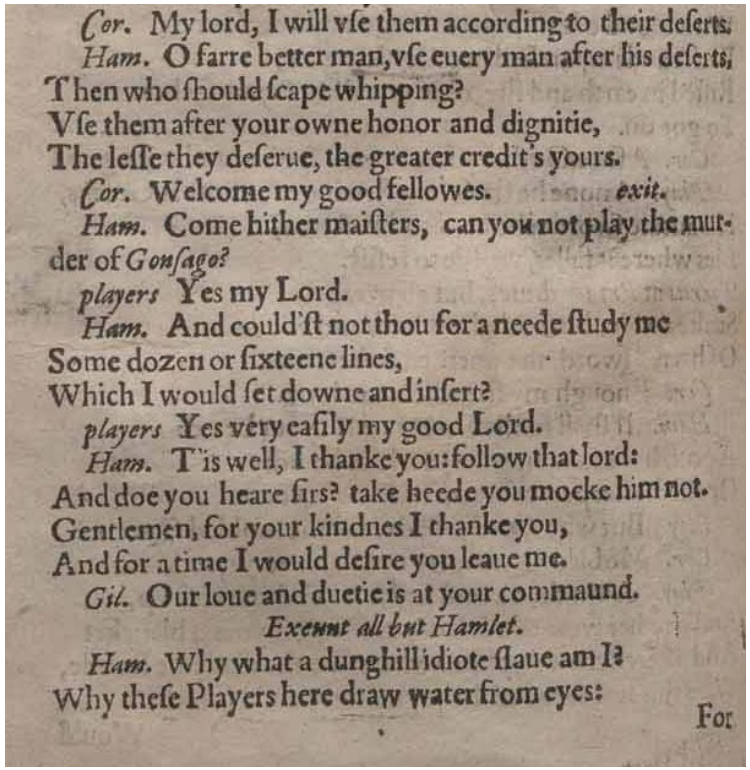
Two versions of a speech?



Cor. My lord, I will vſe them according to their deſerts.
Ham. O farre better man, vſe euery man after his deſerts,
Then who ſhould ſcape whipping?
Vſe them after your owne honor and dignitie,
The leſſe they deſerue, the greater credit's yours.
Cor. Welcome my good fellowes. exit.
Ham. Come hither maiſters, can you not play the murder of Gonſago?
players Yes my Lord.
Ham. And could'ſt not thou for a neede ſtudy me
Some dozen or ſixteene lines,
Which I would ſet downe and inſert?
players Yes very eaſily my good Lord.
Ham. 'Tis well, I thanke you: follow that lord:
And doe you heare ſirs? take heede you mocke him not.
Gentlemen, for your kindnes I thanke you,
And for a time I would deſire you leaue me.
Gil. Our loue and duetie is at your commaund.
Exeunt all but Hamlet.
Ham. Why what a dunghill idiote ſlaue am I?
Why theſe Players here draw water from eyes:
For

heare me old friend, can you play the murther of Gonzago?
Play. I my Lord.
Ham. Weele hate to morrowe night, you could for neede ſtudy a ſpeech of ſome doſen lines, or ſixteene lines, which I would ſet downe and inſert in't, could you not?
Play. I my Lord.
Ham. Very well, followe that Lord, & looke you mock him not.
My good friends, Ile leaue you tell night, you are welcome to Elſonoure. Exeunt Pol. and Players.
Roſ. Good my Lord. Exeunt.
Ham. I ſo God buy to you, now I am alone,
O what a rogue and peſant ſlaue am I.
Is it not monſtrous that this player heere
But in a fixion, in a dreame of paſsion
Could force his ſoule ſo to his owne conceit
That from her working all the viſage wand,
Teares in his eyes, diſtraction in his aſpect,
A broken voyce, an his whole function ſuting
With formes to his conceit; and all for nothing,
For Hecuba.

Lok by his father, with all bands of Law
To our most valiant brother, so much for him:
Now for our selfe, and for this time of meeting,
Thus much the businesse is, we haue here writ
To Norway Vncle of young Fortenbrasse
Who impotent and bedred scarcely heares
Of this his Nephewes purpose, to suppresse
His further gate herein, in that the levies,
The lists, and full proportions are all made
Out of his subiect, and we here dispatch
You good Cornelius, and you Voltemand,
For bearers of this greeting to old Norway,
Giuing to you no further personall power
To businesse with the King, more then the scope
Of these delated Articles allow:
Farewell, and let your haste commend your dutie.
Cor. Vo. In that, and all things will we shew our duty.
King. We doubt it nothing, hartily farewell.
And now Laertes whats the newes with you?
You told vs of some suite, what is't Laertes?
You cannot speake of reason to the Dane
And loose your voice; what would'st thou beg Laertes?
That shall not be my offer, not thy asking,
The head is not more native to the heart
The hand more instrumentall to the mouth
Then is the throne of Denmarke to thy father,
What would'st thou haue Laertes?
Lar. My dread Lord,
Your leaue and fauour to returne to France,
From whence though willingly I came to Denmarke,
To shew my duty in your Coronation,
Yet now I must confesse, that duty done
My thoughts and wishes bend againe toward France,
And bow them to your gracious leaue and pardon.
King. Haue you your fathers leaue, what saies Polonius?
Pol. He hath my Lord wrung from me my slow leaue
By laboursome petition, and at last
Vpon his will I seald my hard consent.
I doe beseech you giue him leaue to goe.
King. Take thy faire houre Laertes, time be thine,
And thy best graces spend it at thy will:
But now my Cosin Hamlet, and my sonne.
Ham. A little more then kin, and lesse then kind.
King. How is it that the clouds still hang on you.
Ham. Not so much my Lord, I am too much in the sonne.
Queene. Good Hamlet cast thy nighted colour off
And let thine eie looke like a friend on Denmarke,
Doe not for euer with thy vailed lids,
Seeke for thy noble father in the dust,
Thou know'st tis common all that liues must die,
Passing through nature to eternitie.
Ham. I Madam, it is common.
Quee. If it be,
Why seemes it so perticuler with thee.
Ham. Seemes Madam, nay it is, I know not seemes,
Tis not alone my inkie cloke could smother,
Nor customarie Suites of solemne blacke,
Nor windie suspiration of forc't breath,
No, nor the fruitfull Riuer in the eie,
Nor the deiected hauiour of the visage,
Together with all formes, moods, shapes of griefe
That can denoute me truly, these indeed seeme,
For they are actions that a man might play,
But I haue that within which passes shew,
These but the trappings and the suites of woe.
King. Tis sweet and commendable in your nature Hamlet,
To giue these mourning duties to your father,
But you must know your father lost a father,
That father lost, lost his, and the suruiuer bound
In filliall obligation for some terme
To doe obsequious sorrowes, but to perseuer
In obstinate condolement, is a course
Of impious stubbornesse, tis vnmanly griefe,
It shewes a will most incorrect to Heauen,
A heart vnfortified, or minde impatient,
An vnderstanding simple and vnschool'd,

ARCHIPELAGO, Issue Two (Clutag Press, 2008)

Announcing the publication of ARCHIPELAGO Issue Two, available April 2008

Clutag Press is delighted to inform you that the second issue of ARCHIPELAGO is now available.

To speak geographically, this issue ranges from Donegal, Derry and Antrim to Scotland, via Galloway, Skye and Cromarty, to descend into England at Filey Brigg. It delays a few days to explore the Wash (neither sea nor land), then puts out again to round the Norfolk and Suffolk coasts. As it progresses it turns the archipelago this way and that, celebrating it across a host of literary, artistic, linguistic, historic, political and topographical trajectories and perspectives.

For more information and to order a copy please click here to visit the ARCHIPELAGO website.

Announcing the forthcoming publication of FLOOD by Paul Abbott with illustrations by Gail McNeillie, available February 2008

Limited edition of 100 copies.

22pp 170mm x 240mm ISBN 0-9553476-2-9

Paul Abbott's poem FLOOD is a 'Waste Land' for the twenty-first century, a timely and daring debut in the disaster genre, by a twenty-one-year-old in his final year at Oxford. Those who have read the first issue of Clutag's magazine Archipelago will have enjoyed a snapshot of the poem in its pages. Now it is offered complete in ten sections, illustrated with eight superbly grainy drawings by Gail McNeillie. The vision here - 'an Epic Newsflash' - is one of post-apocalyptic catastrophe 'couched,' we're told in a prefatory note 'somewhat in the film-cutting style of Soviet montage theory (which I read about on Wikipedia)'.

Personal digital collections: the challenge

- Challenge to the archival sector to offer better, more trusted services to creators/donors

The journey: past, present and future

- Previous and related work at Bodleian
- futureArch – objectives & implementation principles
- Current methods of coping and how futureArch's developments will help

Our new project

- Transform hybrid archive capacity over 3yrs
- Implementation principles:
  - Holistic view of the archival lifecycle
  - Work with relevant communities
  - Retain archival principles
  - Good fit with wider Library digital architecture
  - Distribute responsibilities – involve key personnel
  - Work with real collections

Policy objectives

- Establish hybrid archives workflow for whole lifecycle
- Establish roles & responsibilities (curatorial and technical)
- Establish and implement budgetary changes

Cultural objectives

- Address cultural & organisational changes
- Train curatorial staff (distributing knowledge of digital curation)
- Provide curatorial staff with tools that allow them to apply existing skills
- Two one-year graduate traineeships for would-be digital archivists
- Share lessons with other institutions

Cultural objectives

- Address cultural & organisational changes
- Train curatorial staff (distributing knowledge of digital curation)
- Provide curatorial staff with tools that allow them to apply existing skills
- Two one-year graduate traineeships for would-be digital archivists
- Share lessons with other institutions

Infrastructure objectives

- Establish Bodleian Electronic Archives & Manuscripts (BEAM) as a permanent production-level service
- Deliver suitable infrastructure for BEAM, which shares common components with Oxford Digital Library (ODL) and Oxford University Research Archive (ORA)

Collections objectives

- Develop new relationships with creators/donors of papers
  - Engender confidence in our digital curation capabilities
  - Insert the Library earlier in the donor workflow
- Enable easy, regular and secure electronic transfers to the Library
- Process our (identified) born-digital backlog
- Ramp up collection development of hybrid archives

Research support objectives

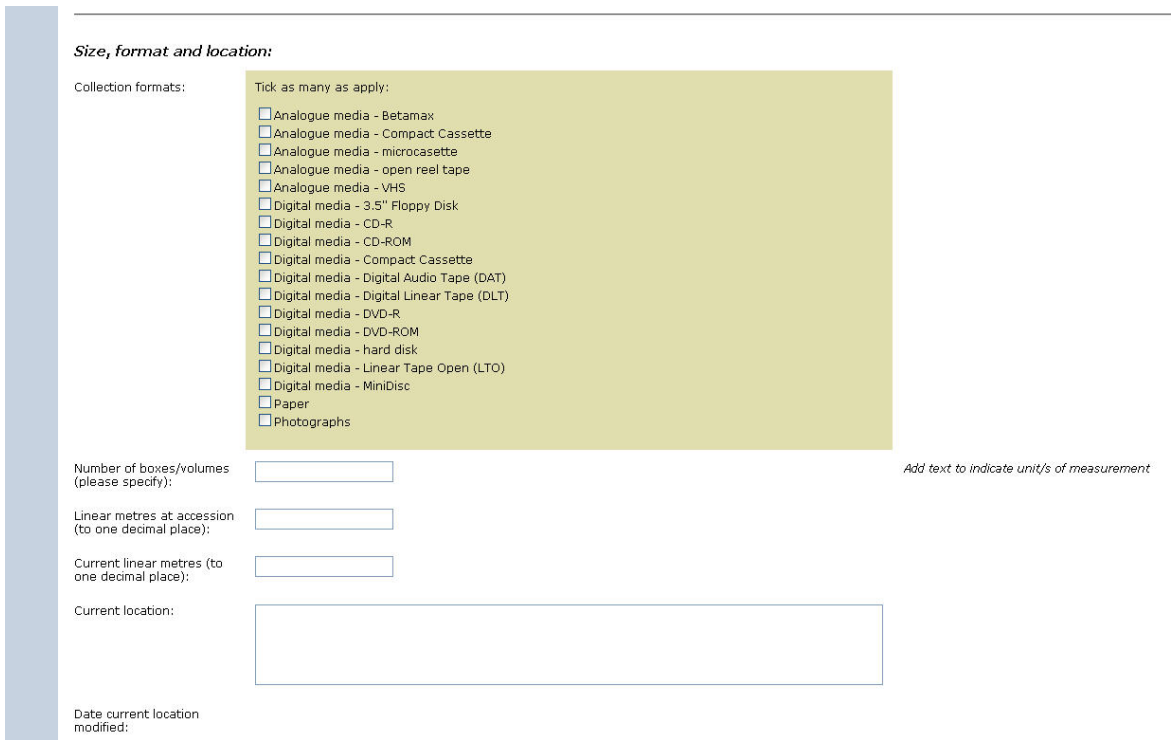
- Develop secure, on-site, access services for readers, which integrate finding aids with access to born-digital material
- Expose metadata about hybrid archives to third-party web services (where suitable)
- Incorporate archives into Search Oxford Libraries Online (SOLO).

On to current methods of coping…

- How we undertake some activities in the archive lifecycle now
- Issues with current practice
- How futureArch will make it better

Accession process

- Currently: uncertainty re. extent/nature of digital holdings, despite survey work
- Encourage capture of format information at accession, and direction of digital material to different (but related) workflow



Size, format and location:

Collection formats: Tick as many as apply:

- Analogue media - Betamax

Acquisition from older media

- Equipment, software and documentation
  - Acquire, store and maintain
- Slow, specialist, but small-ish quantities
- Draw on enthusiast expertise
- Develop and document processes
- Processes obliterate metadata

From manual to automated (mass) extraction

- Modern offline media in archival collections – more of it.
- Currently: imaged disk by disk
- Post futureArch:
  - En masse forensic imaging
  - Error logs
  - Hashing
  - Analysis of disks
  - Operates unattended

Up to 100 discs at once

Up to 150 diskettes at once

Extraction from diverse media

- Currently: configure solutions for media
- Post futureArch: forensic workstation supporting multiple devices:
  - Various hard drives & storage devices (e.g. IDE, SATA, SCSI)
  - Floppies, CDs and DVDs
  - Compact Flash, Micro Drives, Smart Media, Memory Stick, Memory Stick Pro, xD Cards, Secure Digital Media and Multimedia Cards
  - Write protection of source media, hashing, logs, data preview

Extract from Web?

- Currently: no strategies or tools for acquiring components of an archive that are scattered among online services
- Post futureArch:
  - Test extraction from different services (exploring legal and technical issues)
  - Develop curatorial guidelines and how-tos
  - Raise awareness among curatorial staff

Donor submission

- Currently:
  - Submission by email, etc.
  - Relationships with donors
- Post futureArch*:
  - secure online submission tool for donors
  - Better assistance for donors

Storage and preservation

- Currently:
  - Small data safe (media)
  - Stand-alone storage
  - Regular directory structures
  - Accession-level metadata collected in spreadsheet
  - Lower level tool-generated metadata stored alongside data in directory structure
  - Manual technology watch
- Post futureArch:
  - DAMS storage layer
  - Fedora repositories
  - Repository services (authentication, PIDs, access preservation, etc.)
  - Accessible to curators
  - Improved ingest and metadata generation
  - Preservation planning and strategies developed and implemented through Planets tools

Processing and Cataloguing

- Currently:
  - Digital archivist supplies copies (sometimes re-formatted) to cataloguers - security concerns
  - Need new tricks for examining material (diplomatics)
  - Technical requirements (software, dual monitors)
  - Spreadsheets used for appraisal and arrangement
  - Intellectual arrangement takes precedence over format
  - 'MS. Digital' shelfmark
- Post futureArch:
  - Cataloguers have direct access to material via repository
  - Ability to update auto-generated repository metadata
  - Appraisal, arrangement and format transformations facilitated through repository services
  - Elimination of security concerns (no copies)
  - Established cataloguing rules and tips

Arrangement using spreadsheets

- Used by Bodleian cataloguers for arranging archives
- Eliminate duplicates (hash values), often found in personal archive (backups)
- Assign and sort into series and date arrangements

Access

Now

- Few collections catalogued and accessible
- Exploring ideas around presentation
- Access via locked down reading room laptop
- Manual processes – preparing access environments
- Isolation of archival finding aids

Post futureArch

- Certain collections made accessible
- 'Publication pathways' for opening collections to researchers
- Researcher interfaces driven by content models & assoc. services
- Leverage relevant ORA interfaces and Fedora services
- Better linkage between finding aids and digital archives
- Develop reproduction services
- Thin client reading room service (Sun ray)
- Exposure of some metadata to SOLO and the wider web

- Arrangement aims to integrate digital and non-digital

Arrangement

Each series is arranged chronologically with the exception of the MEP subject files which are arranged alphabetically in the manner as used by Castle. The general correspondence series was originally filed in a chronological and alphabetical system. The alphabetical system was the substantially smaller of the two and would appear to have been a later creation that was never fully implemented. Therefore the alphabetical sequence has been merged with the chronological sequence. The sub series 'background documents' in the printed series initially contained original papers which have now been returned to their original subject files. It would appear that the 'background documents' files were created in the process of Castle's memoir research. Barbara Castle's secretaries also began to use a personal computer in her later years, and the digital records thus created are catalogued here. However, the original digital filing system appears to have been created on a largely ad hoc basis and therefore was logical only to its initial users. For the purposes of this catalogue, the function of the digital records has taken priority over format, and so descriptions of digital records have been integrated with their paper counterparts, and identified by the shelfmark 'Castle digital'.

Centre for the Study of the Book

The Centre for the Study of the Book provides a common ground for scholars and librarians with shared interests in understanding, documenting, and interpreting the intellectual and material history of the book.

Please use the index to the left to find information about the events and projects sponsored by the Centre, and news about lectures, seminars, workshops and projects at the Bodleian Library and in Oxford. The CSB also engages in collaborative projects with our partner institutions (listed below).

Support the Centre for the Study of the Book

The Centre for the Study of the Book depends on the philanthropic support of individuals, Trusts, and Foundations. We are enormously grateful to them for enabling us to take the Centre's work forward.

New management issues

- Implications of Google
  - Faults in the corpus
  - Google is not curated
- Preservation of the unique more important than ever
- Who will bear the cost of keeping print?
- New models of collaboration
  - Can the mass digitizers club together?

Conclusion

- A E Housman: the arsenals of Nemesis are located in the recesses of the Bodleian Library.
- Q: Do libraries still have a role as arsenals of research information?
- A: Yes, if we focus on the unique;
  - Content
  - Skills
  - Profile and presentation
- Collective power of the unique
