Waterfall versus Scrum

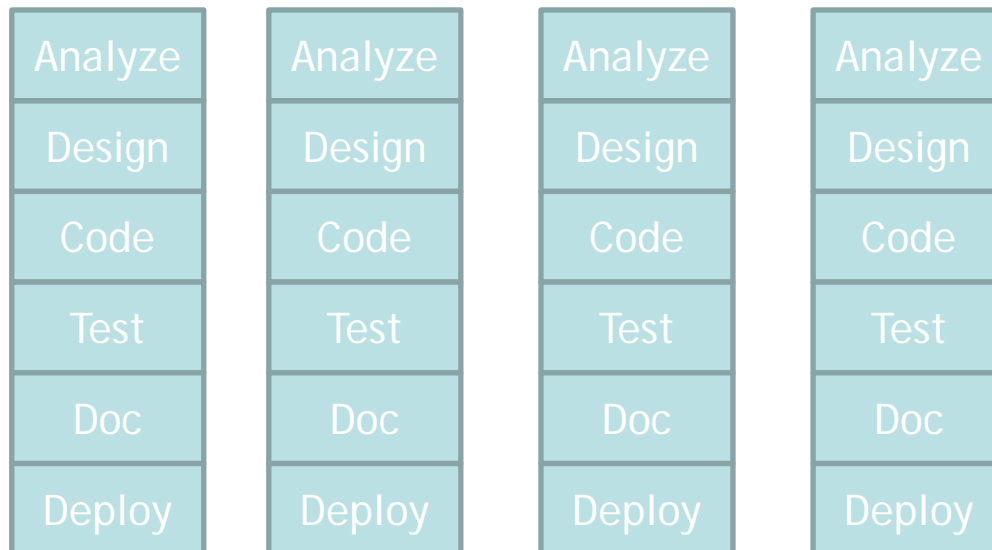

Waterfall Serial Development

t/m LBS4 2.8.2

Agile Concurrent Development (Scrum)

starting from Sept 2010

- Focus on smaller parts, and deliver working module at the end of each iteration
- Close cooperation between Product Management and Development
- Testing can start already during development
- Feedback from Product Management and market early in the process
- More flexibility to implement changes after feedback

LBS4 - Current status

Versions 2.8.1 ff.

"2-Step-Version"

v2.8.1: new architecture and "java loan function"

- user self-check module in OPC4 was completely rewritten to improve performance

Released. Best suited for closed stack environments.

v2.8.2: improvements and additions to 2.8.1 (code & documentation) needed for other environments

Release date: end of 2010

End-User / OPC4

- v2.8: WorldCat look and feel, filtering options for results, improved display of title availability
- „Java loan function“ / user self-service component completely rewritten for better performance (user account information, renew items on loan, reserve items, change password, etc.)

Web-scale or bust.
Andrew Pace

- Roll-out of WMS in Europe depends on localised Version (stepwise)
 - Localised: Local language & data, local / regional infrastructure, standards, workflows, ...

- Next steps in the localisation process
 - High-level definition of local requirements (now)
 - Definition of first activities (Oct - Dec 2010), followed by detailed specification
 - Development activities (starting mid 2011)
 - BIBSYS as first European WMS project (by end 2012)
 - ... (tbd)

- Until then:

LBS4 libraries receive WMS components / services upon availability for integration with LBS4

- WorldCat Local
- WorldCat Knowledge Base with linkresolver / ERM functionality
