

eAudiobooks for academic libraries

A new eAudiobook subscription collection designed for academic libraries is now available from OCLC NetLibrary and Recorded Books. OCLC and Recorded Books, the world's largest producer of unabridged eAudiobooks, are working closely together to deliver new titles and collections to meet the needs of your libraries and users.

The Academic Collection

This new eAudiobook subscription collection includes more than 500 literary fiction, history, business, non-fiction, biographies and classic titles—with 15 new titles arriving monthly.

Also included in the collection are titles from the Your Coach in a Box and the Modern Scholars' series. Modern Scholar offers lectures from leading academics on subjects such as literature, history and world religions. Each month Modern Scholar titles will be added to this collection.

Not only can you provide your users with access to up to 10 titles, for 21 days at a time, you can offer these titles with unlimited simultaneous access.

High-quality audio

With Recorded Books' eAudiobooks, you receive exceptional unabridged recordings. Every element of the production process is checked and rechecked for quality in digital sound studios, fully staffed with technicians, researchers and producers.

You also will hear the best performances by talented professional actors with years of stage and screen experience. These performances are recorded in Recorded Books' state-of-the-art studios and have earned prizes including Audiofile magazine "Earphone" awards for excellence and Audie Awards from the Audio Publishers Association.
