“Getting off the Island: Collaborating to Create Boundless Collections”

15 October 2013 | 9:00 am – 3:30 pm, Pacific Time
Von der Ahe Suite (Level 3), William H. Hannon Library
Loyola Marymount University
9:00 am
Registration, continental breakfast

9:30 am
Welcome and introductions
Eric Forte, Member Liaison, OCLC; Bob Kieft, College Librarian, Occidental College; and Kristine Brancolini, Dean of the Library, Loyola Marymount University

9:45 am
Bridging the Gap: Encouraging Engagement with Library Services and Technologies
Lynn Silipigni Connaway, Senior Research Scientist, OCLC

10:30 am
Break

10:45 am
Collective Collection, Collective Action
Bob Kieft, College Librarian, Occidental College

11:15 am
Curating Collective Collections: Reinventing Shared Print
Emily Stambaugh, Shared Print Manager, California Digital Library, and Program Manager, Western Regional Storage Trust (WEST)

11:45 am
Lunch

12:30 pm
37 Libraries, One DDA Collection: The Orbis Cascade Experience
Kathi Fountain, Collection Services Program Manager, Orbis Cascade Alliance; and Linda Di Biase, Collection Development Librarian, University of Washington, and Chair of the Ebook Working Group of the Orbis Cascade Alliance

Demand-Driven Acquisition in the Colorado Alliance of Research Libraries
Michael Levine-Clark, Associate Dean for Scholarly Communications and Collections Services, University of Denver, and Co-chair, Shared Collections Development Committee, Colorado Alliance of Research Libraries

1:45 pm
Break

2:00 pm
Shared Print in Focus: Current and Future Initiatives (Panel Discussion)
Emily Stambaugh, Shared Print Manager, California Digital Library, and Program Manager, Western Regional Storage Trust (WEST)
Bill Carney, Content Manager, OCLC
John McDonald, Associate Vice President and Chief Information Officer, Claremont University Consortium

3:15 pm
Summary and closing thoughts
Bob Kieft, College Librarian, Occidental College
Speaker Biographies

Kristine Brancolini has been the Dean of the Library at Loyola Marymount University (LMU) since 2006; her first major project was the planning for and construction of the William H. Hannon Library, which opened in 2009. She then shifted her focus to empowering librarians and other staff to create an innovative, user-centered library worthy of its new space. She is the currently serving as Past-chair of the Statewide California Electronic Library Consortium (SCELC). Committed to increasing SCELC’s value to its member and affiliate librarians, she and another LMU librarian inaugurated SCELC Research Day, held on the LMU campus in March 2013. As a result of this event’s success plans for Research Day 2014 are in the works. Prior to coming to LMU, Kris was the Director of the Digital Library Program at Indiana University Bloomington. However, she’s a California native and happy to be back in the state working with California librarians on collaborative solutions to common problems for our users.

Bill Carney is responsible for developing products and services that enhance discovery of and access to library e-content collections. Bill’s recent projects include a global program to synchronize WorldCat with e-book collections and managing OCLC’s shared print support program. During his nearly 25 years with OCLC, Bill has managed and worked on a diverse portfolio of products, including Passport for Windows, the eSerials Holdings service and OCLC’s flagship cataloging service, Connexion. Bill holds a BS degree in business administration and marketing from The Ohio State University.

Lynn Silipigni Connaway, PhD, is a Senior Research Scientist at OCLC Research. She has experience in academic, public and school libraries, as well as library and information science education. Lynn was a Visiting Researcher at the University of Sheffield, Information Studies Department, and is collaborating with them on a UK Arts and Humanities Research Council project. She has completed several UK projects in collaboration with JISC to investigate users’ behaviors, including virtual research environments and digital repositories. She is currently collaborating with JISC and the University of Oxford, with the University of North Carolina, Charlotte, to study digital visitors and residents. She also is the co-principal investigator of an IMLS-funded project with Rutgers University to investigate the possibility of seamless collaboration between knowledge institutions such as libraries and the Social Q&A (SQA) community. Other current research projects include studying bibliographic issues related to how people look for and get their information and mining WorldCat bibliographic and use data to facilitate library decision making. She is the co-author of the 4th and 5th editions of Basic Research Methods for Librarians, has published numerous papers in refereed journals, and presents her research in both national and international venues. Lynn was the co-principal investigator of an IMLS-funded project to study and evaluate the sustainability and relevance of virtual reference services (VRS), and a co-investigator on another IMLS-funded study to investigate the information-seeking behaviors of faculty, graduate students and undergraduates. Prior to joining OCLC Research, she was the Vice-President of Research and Library Systems at NetLibrary, the Director of the Library and Information Services Department at the University of Denver, and on the faculty of the Library and Informational Science program at the University of Missouri, Columbia.

Linda Di Biase has served as Collection Development Librarian at the University of Washington for more than two decades. She has overseen the development of a robust academic e-book collection, both at her own institution and for the Orbis Cascade Alliance, where she serves as Chair of the Ebook Working Group. She has presented in a number of venues on the challenges and opportunities of developing a consortial demand-driven e-book collection.

Kathi Carlisle Fountain is the newly hired Collection Services Program Manager at the Orbis Cascade Alliance. Kathi oversees the consortia’s cooperative collection and collaborative technical services activities including the Alliance’s demand-driven e-book acquisitions program. Before arriving at the Orbis Cascade Alliance, Kathi spent 16 years working in academic libraries as a political science librarian turned collections manager. Her collections experience has focused primarily on monographic selection and use analysis.

Prior to becoming College Librarian at Occidental College in the fall of 2008, Bob Kieft worked at Haverford College, where he was most recently Director of College Information Resources and Librarian of the College. From 1974–1988, he worked at the Stanford University Libraries in public services and collection development. A member of RUSA/CODES, he has held a number of positions in that Section and in RUSA; he is currently on the executive committee of a discussion group within the Modern Language Association, Libraries and Research in Languages and Literatures, and on the Executive Board of the Western Regional Storage Trust. Bob was General Editor of ALA’s Guide to Reference from 2000–2009 and has published articles and reviews in Choice, ARBA, College & Research Libraries, Reference Services Quarterly and Reference Services Review. While in Pennsylvania, he pursued interests in cooperative collections work in the TriCollege Consortium (Bryn Mawr, Haverford and Swarthmore Colleges); as a board member of the Philadelphia Area Consortium of Special Collections Libraries; and as a board member and convener of a task force on cooperative collection initiatives in the Pennsylvania Academic Library Consortium, Inc. He helped to plan and conduct an IMLS-funded grant to LYRASIS and partners in the fall of 2010, “Toward a Cloud Collection: Designing a National Framework to Manage Monographs” and was founder with Bernie Reilly, President of the Center for Research Libraries, of a group who meet informally at ALA to discuss cooperative collections issues. Bob holds a PhD from Stanford University and an MLIS from the University of California, Berkeley.
Keep the conversation going!

This event is part of our latest, cooperative-wide discussion series, “Collective Insight: Driven by Shared Data.” We invite you to keep this conversation going! Here are some ways that you can contribute to this discussion. We will post additional events throughout the coming weeks, so be sure to stay in touch and share this information with your colleagues. You may also view past events and materials from this event series.

- Subscribe to e-mail alerts for Collective Insight: www.oclc.org/forms/insight.en.html
- Keep talking on Twitter #InsightSeries
- Write to us: CollectiveInsight@oclc.org